Policy Update - Register Today for the AMO LAS Energy Symposium!

Municipalities are a key player in Ontario's energy future and need to be ready for the energy challenges and opportunities facing their communities. From the economic impacts of new energy projects, to keeping up with the demands of growth, to the pressures of ensuring affordability for residents, and more, energy is a key factor in many of the questions facing municipalities. Learn more about how your municipality can respond to these questions at the AMO-LAS Energy Symposium happening November 2 and 3, 2023 at the Novotel Toronto Centre.

The event features James Jenkins, Executive Director of Indigenous Clean Energy; The Honourable Todd Smith, Minister for Energy; and David Collie, Chair of the Electrification and Energy Transition Panel, as well as presentations that cover a wide range of topics related to energy sustainability and the low carbon energy economy in municipalities. The hotel room block is available until October 13th and registration is open until October 26th – book now to secure your spot!

If you require a login to register online, e-mail amo@amo.on.ca. Please save your login information as it can be used for online registration for all AMO, LAS, and ROMA events and trainings.
