RECOMMENDATION(S)

That the Built Heritage Committee recommend that Council issue a Notice of Intention to Designate the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa at 284 King Edward Avenue under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act according to the Statement of Cultural Heritage Value attached as Document 5.

RECOMMANDATION(S) DU RAPPORT

Que le Comité du patrimoine bâti recommande au Conseil d'émettre un avis d'intention de désigner l'Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa, située au 284, avenue King Edward, en vertu de la partie IV de la Loi sur le patrimoine de l'Ontario, conformément à la Déclaration de la valeur du patrimoine culturel présentée dans le document 5 en pièce jointe.

BACKGROUND

This report has been prepared because designation under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act (OHA) must be approved by City Council.

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa was constructed between 1904 and 1920 in Lowertown on the corner of King Edward Avenue and Clarence Street. The church was constructed in the Late Gothic Revival Style and was designed by William James Abra of the Ottawa architectural firm of Richards and Abra, a firm which designed numerous churches in the city.

The property was listed on the City of Ottawa Heritage Register in 2017. Changes to the Ontario Heritage Act through Bill 23 will result in the removal of the property from the City's Heritage Register if Council does not issue a Notice of Intention to Designate the property by December 31, 2024. Further, Council will not be able to re-list the property for five years after this date.

In 2020, City Council approved a Zoning Bylaw Amendment to change the zoning from Minor Institutional (I1A) to Traditional Main Street (TM). This would allow for a wider variety of uses on the site in the future. At the time of the application, heritage staff stated that while this property was a strong candidate for designation, a designation report would follow at a later date, since the property was already listed on the Heritage Register. Given the Bill 23 timelines, the Department has decided to move forward with the designation report.

DISCUSSION

Recommendation 1

The Official Plan, the Provincial Policy Statement and the Ontario Heritage Act all provide policy direction related to the designation of individual properties under Part IV of the OHA.

Official Plan

The Official Plan has policies related to cultural heritage in Section 4.5, Cultural Heritage and Archaeology. Section 4.5.1(3) states: “Individual buildings, structures, and sites shall be designated as properties of cultural heritage value under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act.” and Section 4.5.1 (10) states: “The City shall immediately consider the designation of any resource of cultural heritage value under the Ontario Heritage Act if that resource is threatened with demolition.”

Provincial Policy Statement (2020)

Section 2.6.1 of the Provincial Policy Statement (2020) contains the following policy regarding the protection of cultural heritage resources: “Significant built heritage resources and significant cultural heritage landscapes shall be conserved.”

Ontario Heritage Act

Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act provides municipalities with the authority to designate properties of cultural heritage value. Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act sets out the process for the designation of individual buildings. It requires:

- that Council consult with its municipal heritage committee, and
- that the official Notice of Intention to Designate served on the owner and the Ontario Heritage Trust contain a description of the property and its heritage attributes, as well as a statement explaining the cultural heritage value or interest of the property and a statement that a notice of objection may be served on the clerk within 30 days after the date of publication of the notice of intention in a newspaper.

Per the Ontario Heritage Act Alternative Notice Policy, the Notice of Intention to Designate will be published on the City’s website in both official languages. Document 5 contains the Statement of Cultural Heritage Value for this property.

Ontario Regulation 09/06

Regulation 09/06 (see Document 3) establishes criteria to determine if a property is of cultural heritage value or interest. A property may be designated under Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act if it meets two or more of the nine criteria set out in the regulation.

Through research and evaluation, staff have determined that the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa at 284 King Edward Avenue meets seven of the nine criteria. Detailed research and analysis are outlined in the Cultural Heritage Evaluation Report (see Document 4), and a brief analysis of each of the applicable criteria is provided below:

The property has design value or physical value because it is a rare, unique, representative or early example of a style, type, expression, material or construction method.

Constructed in 1904 with a considerable addition built between 1919 and 1920, the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa is a representative example of church architecture influenced by the Late Gothic Revival style, a popular style in Ottawa during the interwar period and often used for institutional buildings. The style is a simplified version, often including characteristic elements of Gothic Revival, while in a manner that met modern building requirements. Typical of the style, the church features a dichromatic material palette using primarily red brick with simple stone detailing, a steeply pitched roof and prominent tower, buttressing and, leaded tracery windows.

The property has design value or physical value because it displays a high degree of technical or scientific merit.

The earliest part of the building, the Gospel Hall, was constructed in 1904 on the northern part of the site and was rolled across the lot in 1919 to the southern edge. This was an uncommon practice for this era, displaying a high degree of technical merit.

The property has historical or associative value because it has direct associations with a theme, event, belief, person, activity, organization or institution that is significant to a community.

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa is directly associated with the growth of evangelical Baptists in Ottawa and Reverend George Rainboth MacFaul, a champion of Baptist culture in Canada.

As the first French Baptists congregation in Ottawa, MacFaul and his supporters were instrumental in establishing French Baptist missions in the Ottawa Valley. MacFaul mentored pastors, biblemen and biblewomen, encouraging them to join him in his work.

The property has historical or associative value because it yields, or has the potential to yield, information that contributes to an understanding of a community or culture.

The property has historical value because it contributes to the understanding of the Baptist Church in Canada. The offers information about French speaking Baptists in Canada and the growth of Baptist congregations in Ottawa. The church was the first French Baptist Church in Ontario.

The property has historical or associative value because it demonstrates or reflects the work or ideas of an architect, artist, builder, designer or theorist who is significant to a community.

The church is directly associated with architect William James Abra. In 1919, the congregation engaged Abra of the Ottawa architectural firm Richards and Abra to design the new church that would incorporate the existing Gospel Hall.

Richards and Abra were a prolific firm in Ottawa, designing churches, hotels and apartment buildings. The firm specialized in educational buildings and is responsible for the design of more than 50 schools in eastern Ontario.

The property has contextual value because it is important in defining, maintaining or supporting the character of an area.

The church is important in maintaining the historic character of Lowertown, reflecting the neighbourhood's eclectic mix of buildings dating from the 19th and early 20th centuries.

The property has contextual value because it is physically, functionally, visually or historically linked to its surroundings.

The property has contextual value as it is physically and historically linked to its surroundings as one of several early 20th century institutional buildings on King Edward Avenue including the Adath Jeshurun Synagogue (1904), now the Seventh Day Adventist Church, Hydro Station No. 4 (1931) and the Champagne Bath (1922). The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa is also functionally linked to the Francophone community in Lowertown, having continuously provided French services since its establishment at the beginning of the 20th century.

Conclusion

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa meets seven of the nine criteria outlined in Ontario Regulation 09/06 for designation under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act. Staff recommend that Council issue a Notice of Intention to Designate the Property under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act.

COMMENTS BY THE WARD COUNCILLOR(S)

The Ward Councilor is aware of the recommendation associated with this report.

CONSULTATION

The property owner was advised of the proposed designation of this property under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act on July 31, 2023. The property owner does not support the proposed designation of this property.

Staff are aware that the owners have concerns about the designation as related to perceived potential impacts to the sale and redevelopment of the site. The intention of the designation is not to prevent any future development and should alterations or development be proposed, a heritage permit would be required to alter the building, and staff would review any proposal against the attributes outlined in the Statement of Cultural Heritage Value.

ACCESSIBILITY IMPACTS

The designation of this property under the Ontario Heritage Act does not impact the physical fabric of the building. While alterations to designated properties, including renovations to remove barriers for people with disabilities, require a heritage permit, the fees for these permits are waived and staff work with property owners to allow for accessibility retrofits.

RISK MANAGEMENT IMPLICATIONS

There are no risk management implications.

ASSET MANAGEMENT IMPLICATIONS

There are no asset management implications for this report.

Building Name and Address: Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa, 284 King Edward Avenue

Construction Date: Gospel Hall: 1904, new church: 1919-20

Original Owner: French Baptist Church/ Église baptiste française

Executive Summary

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa was constructed in 1904 with a substantial addition in 1919-20 in Lowertown on the corner of King Edward Avenue and Clarence Street. The church was constructed in the Late Gothic Revival Style and was designed by William James Abra of the Ottawa architectural firm of Richards and Abra, a firm which designed numerous churches in the city.

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa offers information about French speaking Baptists in Canada and the growth of Baptist congregations in Ottawa. The church's construction in Lowertown illustrates the importance of the Franco-Ontarian community in Lowertown and the growth of the French Baptist community in this part of Ottawa.

The property has cultural heritage value for its design, associative and contextual values. It meets seven of the nine criteria for designation under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act.

The French Baptist Church, now known as the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa was constructed in 1904 as a Gospel Hall, and later expanded between 1919 and 1920. The building is an example of the Late Gothic Revival Style. In the 19th century, Late Gothic Revival churches were clearly derived from medieval examples, however, by the first decades of the 20th century, architects chose to use elements of the Gothic style, such as pointed arch windows, buttresses and towers to embellish their churches and evoke the character of the more complex example of the 19th century. The simplification of the design was part of a widespread movement away from the Revival styles of the 19th century.¹

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa is a red brick structure with limestone details and a stone foundation. It has asymmetrical façades with a low square tower at the northeast corner. It features a steeply pitched gable roof, brick buttresses that are

The north façade features a parapet containing a small crest with the Latin words Fiat Lux, meaning “Let there be light.”, the motto for the Grande Ligne Mission.² The north wall also features a central rose window with a bible in the centre, segmental arched windows with stone and keystones and brick voussoirs. There is a tall rectangular window with leaded glass and tracery in the corner tower. The church features two memorial windows for former congregation members fallen during the First World War.³

The south end of the building contains the former Gospel Hall, a simple gable-roof structure with a row of rectangular windows. The Gospel Hall was erected in 1904 to house the growing Baptist congregation. Originally located at the corner of King Edward

Avenue and Clarence Street, it was moved to its present location in 1919 by rolling it across the site, an uncommon practice for the time. The Gospel Hall would be incorporated into the new church, serving as the Sunday School.⁴

Changes to the building over the years include replacing many of the diamond-shaped leaded glass windows, obscuring the crenellated parapet on the tower with flashing, changing the wooden doors, and removing the balcony from the Gospel Hall.

Architect/Builder

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa was designed by William James Abra of the Ottawa architectural firm of Richards and Abra in 1919-20. The firm was commissioned to design a larger church for the Baptists and to repurpose the existing Gospel Hall to form part of the new structure. Abra designed the new church building based on the Gospel Hall.

William James Abra was born in Ayr, Ontario in 1882 and attended school in Toronto. After high school, Abra took courses in architecture and became a draftsman in 1903. Abra moved to Ottawa in 1907 and worked briefly for the architecture firms of Horwood and Taylor and Weeks and Keefer before beginning his long-term partnership with Hugh Richards in 1913.

Richards and Abra were a prolific firm in Ottawa, designing churches, hotels and apartment buildings including the Duncannon Apartments and the Mayfair Apartments on Metcalfe Street. The firm specialized in educational buildings and is responsible for the design of more than 50 schools in eastern Ontario. Richards and Abra undertook several church commissions including the Bronson Avenue Baptist Church (1914), the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa (1919-20), Eastview Baptist Church (1924) and the Westminster Presbyterian Church (1931-32).⁵

History

In 1890 and 1891, limited Baptist services were offered in French in Ottawa and Hull through the Feller Institute. The Institute was a mission out of Grande Ligne, Quebec that focused on the evangelization of citizens, specifically Roman Catholics. This was the beginning of the French Baptist movement in the Outaouais region.

French services were offered again in 1901 at the First Baptist Church on Laurier Avenue West. As interest grew, services were moved to Clarence Street for 15 months. A larger hall was secured in 1903 at 504 Sussex. After a year, services moved to 186 Rideau Street for six months. At this time, the Gospel Hall was built and opened at King Edward Avenue and Clarence Street. By November of 1904, Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa had 24 members.⁶

By 1914, the Gospel Hall was crowded and efforts to build a larger church began. All 127 church members were asked to donate funds toward a new building. The First World War caused delays, but plans moved ahead, and construction began in spring 1919. The cornerstone was laid by the senior deacon of the church, Mr. Louis Blais, at a bilingual Dominion Day ceremony attended by Abra and MacFaul on July 1, 1919. The new church was estimated to cost $27,000 and was to stand at the site of the old Gospel Hall.⁷

The new church was dedicated on Feb 29, 1920. At that time, there were 145 members and 160 students enrolled in Sunday school. When it opened, the building had “the distinction of being the only French Baptist church in the Province of Ontario.”⁸

The church is directly associated with Reverend George Rainboth McFaul (1869 – 1930), a champion of Baptist culture in Canada. MacFaul was an anglophone who taught himself French and was devoted to the Baptist evangelization of French Roman Catholics.

The Ottawa Journal, March 7, 1914

Reverend McFaul was born in Point Fortune, Quebec in 1869, moved with his family to Niagara Falls in 1884 and converted to the Baptist faith at age 16. He studied at the Feller Institute, a Protestant college in Grande Ligne, Quebec. As a student at the Feller Institute, he provided English, French and bilingual services to Protestants across the Ottawa Valley including Baptist missions in Canaan, Hull, Ottawa and Otter Lake. MacFaul graduated in 1891 and went on to receive a BA and an MA from McMaster University, a Baptist institution based in Toronto at that time. He and Amy Guliema Wilmot married in 1896 and they had three children.

MacFaul worked as a pastor in Toronto and in Clarence-Rockland before moving to Ottawa in 1901 where he visited houses and offered French services at the First Baptist Church in Centretown, meanwhile continuing to serve families in Rockland and Hull.⁹ In 1903, Reverend MacFaul offered French and bilingual services on Clarence Street, later moving services to a larger hall on Sussex Drive, then to Rideau Street and finally at the Gospel Hall at the intersection of Clarence Street and King Edward Avenue that now forms part of the subject property.

MacFaul and his supporters were instrumental in establishing French Baptist missions in the Ottawa Valley. Baptists believe in Jesus Christ as the Lord, and that God communicates his will through the Bible. The mission of evangelists is to share God's message with everyone.¹⁰ MacFaul mentored pastors, biblemen and biblewomen, encouraging them to join him. Numbers grew steadily. The Église évangélique baptiste began in Ottawa in 1903 and the Hull Baptist Church formed in 1916. MacFaul wrote brochures and authored a book entitled Is there Salvation Outside the Roman Catholic Church? MacFaul continued mission work in Brownsburg, Quebec and in Otter Lake, Ontario. He was involved with the Association des Églises baptistes françaises, the Canadian Baptists of Ontario & Quebec, and a number of other Baptist organizations.

Reverend MacFaul is interred at Beechwood cemetery in Ottawa alongside other missionaries who worked evangelically with the Francophone community.

Edward Avenue today divides Lowertown into East and West sectors. However, in 1920, when this church was completed, King Edward Avenue was a tree-lined thoroughfare with a boulevard running through the heart of the Lowertown neighbourhood.

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa offers information about two communities; the Lowertown neighbourhood and the French Baptist community. The history of Lowertown is the history of generations of Ottawa's working people, both French and English speaking, and the physical record of that social history, represented in buildings such as the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa.

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa also offers information about French speaking Baptists in Canada and the growth of Baptist congregations in Ottawa. A French-speaking membership grew based on mission work in the Ottawa area.

The church's construction in Lowertown illustrates the growth of the French Baptist community in this part of Ottawa. The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa served a bilingual congregation continuously until the 1980s when linguistic tensions caused the services to be offered exclusively in French.

Lowertown, including the ByWard Market, is a mixed-use area with a variety of architectural styles from several eras. As an example of a Late Gothic Revival church from the interwar years, the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa is important in maintaining the historic character of Lowertown and its eclectic mix of buildings from several eras. The red brick building has been a dominant feature along King Edward Avenue for a century. Its age, style and construction materials maintain the historic character of Lowertown.

Document 5 – Statement of Cultural Heritage Value

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value – 284 King Edward Avenue

Description of Property

The French Baptist Church also known as the Église baptiste française, now the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa at 284 King Edward Avenue is a red brick structure with limestone details and stone foundation. The Gospel Hall was built in 1904 and the sanctuary and tower were added to the site in 1919-20. The site is located at the southwest corner of Clarence Street and King Edward Avenue in Ottawa's Lowertown neighbourhood.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The cultural heritage value of the Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa is found in its design value as a representative example of interwar church architecture with Late Gothic Revival influences, its historical association with the Ottawa's French Baptist community, and its contextual value as one of several red brick institutional buildings on King Edward Avenue.

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa has design value as a representative example of interwar church architecture influenced by the Late Gothic Revival style, a style that was popular in Ottawa during the interwar period and often used for institutional buildings. Typical of the style, the church features a dichromatic material palette using primarily red brick with simple stone detailing, a steeply pitched roof and prominent tower, buttressing and, leaded glass windows with tracery. The earliest part of the building, the Gospel Hall, was constructed in 1904 on the northern part of the site and was rolled across the lot in 1919 to the southern edge. This was an uncommon practice for this era, displaying a degree of technical merit.

The church has cultural heritage value for its association with local architect William James Abra. In 1919, the congregation engaged Abra of the Ottawa architectural firm Richards and Abra to design the new church that would incorporate the existing Gospel Hall. It was the first French Baptist Church in Ontario.

The Église évangélique baptiste d'Ottawa has historical value for its associations with the establishment and growth of French Baptism in Ottawa and with francophone history in Lowertown. Baptist pastor, Reverend George Rainboth McFaul first held French services in a rented hall on Clarence Street in 1901. Over the next three years, he would hold services in various locations around Lowertown until the growing congregation purchased the property at the corner of King Edward Avenue and Clarence Street and built a Gospel Hall in 1904. As the congregation continued to grow, funds were raised to move the hall from the corner of Clarence and King Edward to the rear of the lot in order to build a new, larger church building on the site in 1919.

The church has contextual value as it is physically and historically linked to its surroundings as one of several early 20th century institutional buildings on King Edward Avenue including the former Adath Jeshurun Synagogue (1904), Hydro Station No. 4 (1931) and the Champagne Bath (1922).

It is also functionally linked to the Francophone community in Lowertown, having continuously provided French services since its establishment at the beginning of the 20th century. The church is important in maintaining the historic character of Lowertown, reflecting the neighbourhood's eclectic mix of buildings dating from the 19th and early 20th centuries.
