Good Morning,

I hope this message finds you well!

We are excited to announce the upcoming Police Governance Summit:

"Strategic Leadership: From Costing to Culture – Building Your Police Governance Knowledge in a Changing Society", hosted by the Canadian Association of Police Governance \(CAPG\).

This event will take place on January 6th & 7th, 2025, at the prestigious Château Laurier in Ottawa. \(Deadline December 4th\)

This year's summit will bring together police board members, municipal officials, and governance professionals from across Canada, offering insights into the critical issues facing police governance today.

Topics will include financial planning, tech advancements, fostering cultural change, and equipping boards with the tools to respond to evolving community needs. By sponsoring this event, your organization will gain visibility among key decision-makers and support CAPG's mission to strengthen police governance across Canada.

Sponsorship benefits include:

- Visibility in summit materials, including banners, website, and program.
- Opportunities to network with leading governance professionals and officials.
- Recognition in CAPG's communications, including post-summit reports and social media coverage.

We are offering several sponsorship tiers to suit your organization's goals and budget. For more details on sponsorship packages and how you can be a part of this impactful event, please feel free to reach out. I am happy to discuss how we can tailor a package to maximize your involvement!

Thank you for considering this opportunity to contribute to the future of police governance in Canada. Your support would be invaluable in making this summit a success.

CAPG Winter Summit Speakers:

Lessons Learned from 10 years of police austerity measures and service delivery in the UK. Dr. Rick Muir, UK Police Foundation.

Dr Rick Muir is Director of the Police Foundation, the UK's independent policing think tank. He has led the Foundation since 2015 and oversaw its work on the Strategic Review of Policing in England and Wales. He was previously Associate Director at the Institute for Public Policy Research (IPPR), leading the Institute's research on public services, including policing and criminal justice. He has a D Phil in Politics from the University of Oxford. He is currently a Visiting Professor at Northumbria University and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce (RSA). He was previously a local councilor in both Oxford and Hackney.

How Police Governance Should Assess Public Value for $ Through the Lens of “Adequate and Effective Policing” with Fred Kaustinen, GovernEdge

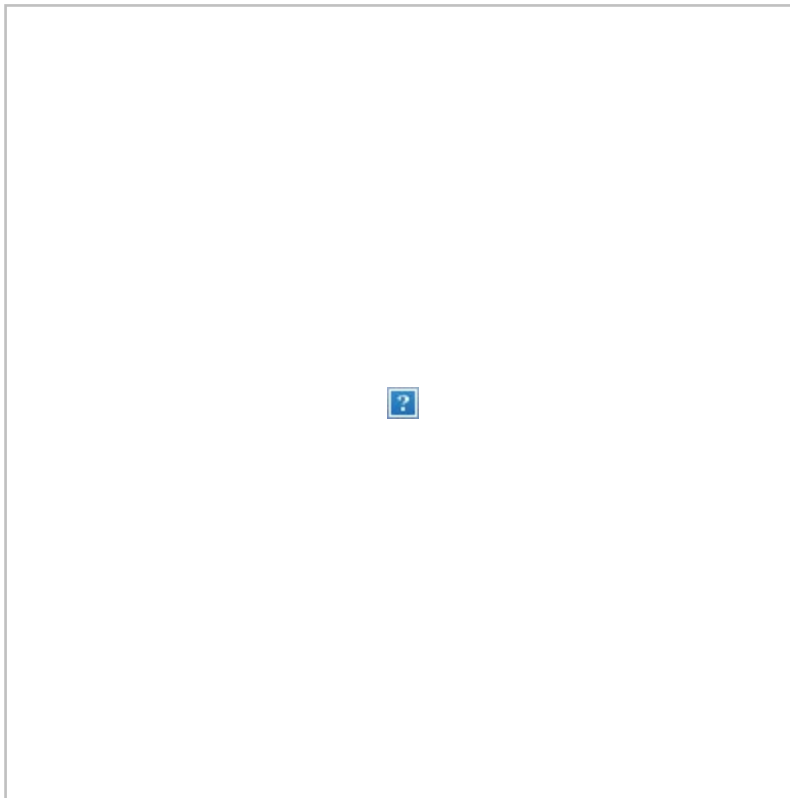

Fred Kaustinen is Principal at the police governance consulting firm Governedge Inc. and serves as Chief Governance Officer with the Halton Police Board. He has assisted and advised dozens of municipal and First Nations’ police boards and commissions across Canada over the past 25 years.

Please refer to www.governedge.com .

As a police governance advisor, Fred emphasizes setting the tone at the top of the organization (i.e. the police board) by focussing on issues that really matter, proactively determining and articulating the strategic expectations of the police service, and scrupulously holding police leaders to account for organization performance.

Fred is a lifelong learner and athlete, and a decorated army veteran. He is also a graduate of Royal Roads MBA program and the Institute of Corporate Directors' program (the ICD), and a recipient of the CAPG Award of Excellence in Police Governance.

What Police Governance Bodies Need to Consider When Considering New Technologies Within Strategic Planning and Budgeting with Dr. Dallas Bouckley (Hill)

Navigating increasing internal and external demands for information has been accompanied by rapid technology adoption across policing. With these adoptions come complex decision-making processes to ensure successful implementation, use, management, and evaluation of the products. This discussion will shed light on the crucial questions that police governance bodies need to ask when considering a new technology for your service – with a particular focus on the importance of aligning organizational decisions with SOPs.

Dr. Dallas Bouckley (Hill) is a research analyst for Durham Regional Police Service. In her role, she has focused on rigorous evaluations of various technologies and programs to ensure that they are meeting the strategic and operational goals of the service. Prior to this, she completed her PhD in Criminology and Social Justice at Ontario Tech University. Her work examined the processes and influences involved in how Canadian police services make decisions about technology. During this time, she also worked for Wilfrid Laurier University and Ontario Tech University on a variety of police/research partnerships, examining topics such as intelligence integration, the role of crime analysts, facial recognition technology, public engagement, and data modernization.
